

Daniel Hoesl uses film to examine the price of money. His first feature film “Soldier Jane” premiered at Sundance in 2013 and won the Tiger Award in Rotterdam the same year. His partner, Julia Niemann, and him are also known for their award winning films “WinWin” and “Davos”.

Julia Niemann is a writer of film and television projects and producer of the film collective European Film Conspiracy. As co-director she collaborated with Daniel Hoesl on the feature film “Davos”, which won numerous awards. Their work addresses the themes of wealth, power and entitlement.